Hi, Neighbor

by Mac Rex Graham

Did you ever notice how very friendly two strangers can become if they discover they have the same home State back East?

The other day, H. W. Jollett came in the Review office to place an ad. for the automobiles he has for sale at 7844 Broadway.

He said "Iowa." I sez "where from?" He sez "Des Moines." I sez "lived there myself but came here from Sac City." "Well, well," sez he, "that's where my wife was born."

So now we've found a new friend, and friends are just about the most precious things you can have these days.

So right now I am inviting all you Hawkeyes from the State of Iowa to come in and get acquainted.

Maybe when you get in here, if I can't sell you an ad., I can talk you into subscribing to the Review. Lemon Grove's one and only newspaper.

A lot of people have been coming in to subscribe and we also appreciate the subscribers who have been taking the paper, coming in to pay for their subscriptions, too.

Newspaper (that's what we print the paper on) has gone sailing up with the rest of the prices and it takes a lot of subscriptions each week to pay for the newspaper.

I did think for a while that Harry Lane, who is starting a haberdashery store in the new Sonka building, might have his eye on the presidency, but I guess not since there has been so much shootin' in Washington and the cantankerous Republicans have upset so many apple carts.

Well anyway, Mr. Lane wants to get his new Men's Store open by Thanksgiving, but we know some carpenters who'll have to move fast if he does.

He has a big store room full of the most elegant men's apparel you ever saw, so my warning to you Lemon Grove boosters is: Don't even buy a Stetson until Lane's big opening day, which should be about November 23.

Dancing and games will follow the dinner.

The club will honor the two new officers, Mrs. Wm. Hubbard, president, and Mrs. Wm. Miller, second vice president, at a luncheon and fashion show at El Cortez Hotel on Wednesday. Mrs. J. E. Sonka senior advisor, will present Mrs. Hubbard with her president's pin.

Voters Must Approve Bonds to Get State Aid

While the Lemon Grove School District received an allocation in the amount of $1,344,269.00 from the Allocation Board on November 2, it should be noted that this was a conditional apportionment.

Two conditions must be met. First, that the Lemon Grove School District shall bond itself to 95% of its legal bonding capacity; and secondly, that the voters of the school district authorize the Board of Trustees to accept at least the funds granted in the allocation.

When the local school district funds have been approved by the voters, sold by the Board of Supervisors, and placed on deposit with the County Treasurer, then the money allocated by the State will be transferred to the Lemon Grove District.

This requirement is based on the provision in the law which requires that a school district must exhaust its local resources to meet its building need before it may be granted State aid for school building. This necessitates bonding to capacity. Acting on this information, the Government Board of the Lemon Grove School District met Monday, November 6, and passed a resolution to call a bond election on December 5, in the amount of $71,000, and, at the same time, to call an election authorizing the Board to borrow an amount not to exceed $1,750,000. Similar elections will be held throughout the Grossmont area, and will include the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District and El Cajon.

The amount of $1,750,000, has been set at 25% above the amount allocated by the State in order to cover the rising construction cost and to care for the additional building needs brought about by sudden increase in enrollment.

In effect, we are voting $71,000 in local school bonds so that we will be eligible to accept the $1,344,269.00 from the State.

Detailed information concerning the building program and the coming school bond election on December 5 will be published in this paper during this month. It is the duty of every public-minded citizen in the community to become informed about the building needs of the district. Anyone who wishes further clarification and more details is asked to call H-6-5754 and direct his questions to B. L. Netzel, district superintendent of schools.

C of C States Its Stand on Fire Station Location

Lemon Grove Forward Club Lemon Grove, California

Dear Club Members:

In your letter of October 30, advising us that a resolution had been passed deploring the location of the Fire Station opposite the school building because of hazard, was received and presented to the Board of Directors.

The matter of the location of the Fire Station was discussed with the school board of trustees and the administration staff of the Lemon Grove School District before the Board of Fire Commissioners decided to acquire the property for such purpose. It was concluded that no particular traffic hazard of safety problem would be created.

The use of School Lane and Central Avenue by the school children will be materially and substantially reduced when the new building program of the School District is concluded. We suggest that you join with the Chamber of Commerce and the School District in requesting the Board of Supervisors and the County Department to widen and improve Central Avenue between Imperial Avenue and School Lane.

The Board of Directors appreciates your interest in community problems and we are always pleased to receive your suggestions or criticism. Sincerely yours, V. J. Dorman, President, Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce.

Taxes Pay for Honeymoon

THE TAXPAYERS don't know it, but they are paying for the honeymoon of a congressman's daughter. She is Mrs. Jules de Porre, daughter of Democrat congressman Louis Rabaut of Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.

Carolyn was the last in a line of daughters who worked as Congressman Rabaut's secretary. But she quit to get married shortly after Easter, and became Mrs. Jules de Porre on July 8. Despite this, she has continued to draw $443.33 a month.

While the congressman's daughter draws her salary, her job is taken by Marion B. Lacey, who is paid $331.71 per month by the house appropriations committee. Very conveniently, the committee "loaned" her to Rabaut to handle "committee business." She is not on his regular pay roll.

When queried by this column, Rabaut explained that his daughter never quit working for him, but just shifted to his Detroit office. Actually, this explanation doesn't hold up. For the congressman didn't open an office in Detroit until Congress recessed the last week of September. Furthermore, when the congressman takes a trip to Detroit, his office help in Washington complain that he scribbles letters in long-hand and sends them back to Washington to be typed, thus making a mystery as to what his newly married daughter is supposed to be doing for him in his Detroit office. A further check by this column in Detroit indicates that Mrs. de Porre hasn't been working for her father as his congressional secretary at all.

Mrs. de Porre also told this column that she returned to work here between Easter and her July 8 wedding day, but a check at the house office building revealed this was not true.

The real truth is that Congressman Rabaut gave his daughter a $643.33-per-month wedding gift—at the taxpayers' expense.

John L. Lewis's Friend

It's no secret that New Hampshire's Sen. Styles Bridges, the No. 2 Republican of the senate, was paid $35,000 a year as trustee for John L. Lewis' miners' welfare fund. In addition, it also looks as if the shaggy-browed Lewis has been giving cues to Bridges regarding foreign policy.

For several months, Bridges has been working closely with the state department and moving into Senator Vandenberg's shoes as the GOP spokesman on foreign affairs—second only to Senator Taft in Republican influence. But, suddenly, Bridges lashed out with a vitriolic attack against the state department.

This attack, it now develops, was not prepared in Bridges' office at all, but by John L. Lewis' "public relations" firm, the Allied Syndicate.

Tip-off came when the Bridges statements were delivered by mistake to the wrong part of the Capitol. A press attendant called Bridges' office to straighten out the error, but no one in the senator's office seemed to know about it. They didn't even know that he was making a statement on foreign policy.

Later, Arthur Reilly, a former John L. Lewis press-relations man, straightened out the matter of the misplaced Bridges press releases. Reilly, after serving in United Mine Workers headquarters, transferred to the Washington office of the Allied Syndicate, which works for Lewis. The Bridges statement, incidentally, was prepared while the senator was out of the city.

So it looks as if the $35,000 salary paid by John L. was producing more from Senator Bridges than his services as trustee on the miners' pension fund.

Admirals' Propaganda

The Admirals' propaganda outfit, "Operation 23," was supposed to have been abolished after the B-36 feud of last fall. It was the cause of a bitter battle between the air force and the navy, with the result that forthright Secretary of the Navy Matthews dispersed the naval officers in charge.

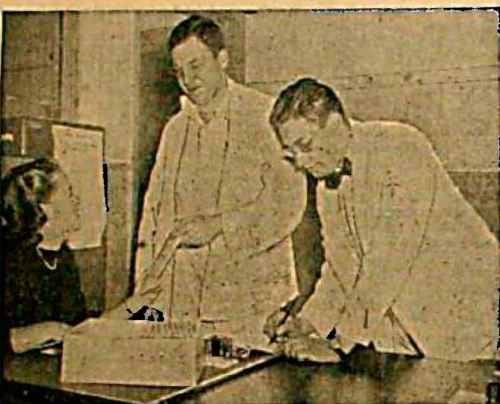

However, it now develops that the ghost of "Operation 23" is still haunting the air force. The same old anti-air force stories are being leaked to the press. In fact, navy propagandists, believe it or not, are spreading the same identical stories as the Communists about the air force; namely, that U.S. air planes have been killing North Korean women and children.

Actually, B-29 raids in Korea have been so accurate that they demolished the Woosung armament plants without even touching the rows of workers' houses alongside.

Some admirals are also coming out into the open with the same views. They got them into trouble over unification. Rear Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, for instance, harangued a recent conference of American mayors on the navy's success in Korea, as if the air force did not exist.

Minority Rule

TO INSURE THE MAINTENANCE of our government "of, for and by the people," we should have honest elections by voters legally qualified to express a choice as to policies, parties and candidates. Our elected officials should be the choice of a majority of those legally qualified to express a choice. Regardless of how we as individuals may feel about such a result, we could have no justifiable complaint as long as the result represents a majority of those entitled to express a preference.

The difference between a majority or minority rule can be and frequently is but a small percentage of the votes cast in any election. One hundred or less fraudulent and illegal votes may change a result. A limited number of such votes could change the policies of our federal government from that of our American system to that of socialism and Communism; to the radical left, and away from government "of, for and by the people."

In all states, voters to exercise the privilege of voting and having a part in government "of, for and by the people," must register. In a number of states the prescribed methods of registering is much easier than in others, but in all states illegal registration is possible and is practiced to some extent.

At an election in Chicago a few years ago a group of young business men, headed by Henry Pope, Jr., undertook the task of checking the registrations. In what are known as the four river wards, one or more of that group personally checked every registrant. They called at the address given—often it proved to be a factory or warehouse, and in many others the registrant was questioned as to his American citizenship, how long he had lived at the address, and other questions that would prove the legality of his registration.

Those young business men challenged and took off the voting lists more than 100,000 names of those who would have cast fraudulent votes in the forthcoming election. It was in no instance a question of who the registrant would vote for; it was entirely the qualifications to vote in which the interrogator was interested.

Under our election system there could be conditions through which that 100,000 fraudulent registrations could nullify the will of a majority of all of those legally entitled to vote in a national election. They could have changed the policies of the nation from what we have known as our American system to that of Socialism and Communism. Undoubtedly the purpose of those who encouraged and connived at such registration hoped for such a result.

President Truman is credited with being an exceptionally clever politician. He does not get such a reputation by the apologies he makes but by not creating the necessity or call for apologies. To apologize can not cure all the damage the need for the apology has created.

It was a serious political error to rebuke General MacArthur for expressing publicly his views as a soldier on the military value of Formosa. The President's attempted softening of that rebuke by making public a letter of commendation to MacArthur did not mend all the political damage the public administration of that rebuke had caused. The public censure of our far eastern commander constituted a costly political blunder.

Another political fux pas on the part of the President were his statements regarding the marines. The people resented such statements, reflecting as they did on that heroic and always popular unit of our armed service.

The subject apology he publicly offered did not undo all the political damage his untold, and disparaging statement had created.

Of the same character were his "red herring" statements he glibly passed on the investigation of Communist activities when under investigation by both senate and house committees.

Again these statements had to be apologized for when the courts convicted Alger Hiss and other leaders of Communist activities.

The President's administration has been replete with such incidents that were not to be expected from one credited with being especially astute in the ways of politics.

For 1949 the per capita income for all farm families averaged $703. For those in town and city homes the average per capita income amounted to $1,555. But the farmers were not so badly off as the figures would indicate. The city man had to pay for his income for food, but the farm produced most of the farmers' food, and also much of his heat which the city man had to buy. But there is more than 18 per cent difference between $703 and $1,555.

DEATH AT YOUR ELBOW

With the onset of the winter season's longer nights and rain and snow-slicked pavements, Safety Councils and highway authorities are intensifying their endless campaign to hold down traffic accidents.

"Right now is perhaps the most hazardous period," points out Claire V. Goodwin, Safety Council official, "because many motorists are in the process of adjusting to the difference in driving conditions. Rain and darkness only step up the dangers of skidding—but visibility is cut down so that slower and extremely careful driving are absolutely safety essentials."

Moreover according to an added warning issued last week by California Safety Councils, the man who is careless by nature is in almost as much danger in his own living room as he would be in his car. The warning cites the startling statistics that 31,000 Americans were killed in home accidents over the last year.

Chief "death dealing" hazards are slippery floors, small loose rugs, stairways that are ill-lighted or in disrepair, carelessly stored poisons and worn or frayed electric appliance cords.

With death by accident at everyone's elbow, whether at home or abroad, in this dangerous age, it is to be hoped the safety authorities' warning will be widely read and heeded.

Political Parade

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

Good old George McLain... the slick promoter of 1948's Proposition No. 4 (remember Myrtle) who was undone by 1949's Proposition No. 2, is readying a third performance. A man has to make a living somehow.

McLain's latest, another pension scheme, follows the basic pattern established in '48, but in keeping with the times, it'll cost a mint more, if passed.

But down to cases. Perhaps feeling it might be easier and cheaper in the final analysis to take the long way around, Never Say Die McLain has taken advantage of a little used portion of the initiative and referendum process to stage his scheme by route of a petition to the Legislature. The mechanics of this approach are as follows:

After drawing their measure McLain and cohorts... obtained the signatures of 500,558 registered voters who agreed with them. Only 127,920 were required. With signatures secured, the matter will now automatically go before the Legislature, which must either accept or reject the scheme in toto. If the lawmakers reject it—as they undoubtedly will, the measure automatically goes on the next election ballot.

So far, so good, for McLain. He has the necessary signatures, over half of them from Los Angeles County, and the measure will appear duly on the Legislative docket.

Fully in keeping with the McLain tradition, this latest legislative initiative is a pip. It hangs on to the current $75 monthly pension, but provides, in addition, for extensive medical, dental and hospital care; for ambulance service, drugs and medicines; for eye glasses, hearing aids, artificial limbs and nursing care.

Then, if the cost of living should go up, the measure carries an escalator clause which would take the pensions up. Funeral expenses of $150 are included. Other than these items, the measure is fairly similar to the discredited Proposition No. 4 of 1948. The new plan, instead of having counties administer pension aid, would turn the entire matter over to the State, like the old McLain pension scheme.

About the only thing left out of McLain's previous scheme, is that no attempt is made to use the fine-print of the Act to write in a new, hand-picked Social Welfare Director. But then you can't have everything. (Besides, maybe McLain figures that is what passed Proposition 2 in 1949, which repealed his Proposition No. 4.)

The one good thing in connection with the plan is that it will not go on the ballot until November 1952 (unless the Legislature approves it so that it will not go on at all or unless a Special Election intervenes and puts it on earlier.) With these "ifs", at least everyone should have a respite from pension promoters for a couple of years.

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT
JAMES DORAIS

For most of us, it's a welcome relief to have the din and hysteria of the election campaign season a thing of the sudden past.

It feels so good when it's over—the way a person's head feels when he quits pounding himself with a hammer.

The political pundits, of course, are busy analyzing the overall results of the election establishing trends, counting the sure votes that the party in power can count on in a punch, and so on and so forth.

The rest of us are busy trying to decide whether or not to send out Christmas cards this year.

Perhaps the election results didn't matter one way or another very much. Between so many Republicans and Democrats these days, there is very little difference (notice we didn't include New or Fair Dealers)—and anyway, no Communists were elected.

And speaking of Communists, here is a quote from a little political tract recently issued by Earl Browder, former chief of America's Stalin colony:

"State capitalism has progressed farther in America than in Great Britain."

Mr. Browder lists 22 specific items of American governmental policy to prove his point, explaining that all the items "have the single feature in common that they express the growth of State capitalism." And according to Mr. Browder, the growth of State capitalism "makes socialism inevitable."

There are the items of government policy which the Communist mentor confidentially regards as stepping stones to dictatorship:

"Government deficit financing; manipulation of bank reserves; requirements; insurance of bank deposits; guarantee of mortgages; control of bank credits; tinkering with the currency system; regulation of installment buying; price controls; price support for farm products; agricultural credits RFC loans to business corporations; social security systems for workers; various benefits for veterans; government housing; public works to provide employment; many projects for the conservation of natural resources; juggling of the tax structure; new tariff regulations; government organized foreign loans; the Employment Act; the President's economic committee; and last, but by no means least, stimulated war armaments production on a large scale."

Almost everyone will recognize at least one, and probably more, items in Mr. Browder's list which he fervently approves.

Maybe all of them aren't really stepping stones; maybe Mr. Browder is just a wishful thinker.

But if he is only partly right, maybe there is more to this business of combatting Communism than just requiring a loyalty oath from the school janitor.

THE WESTERN RAVEN

The Western Raven, Mexican Raven or American Raven, Corvus corax sinuatus.

The color of the Western Raven is uniform lustrous black, showing steel blue and violet purplish iridescence; feathers of the throat long, narrow, pointed light gray basally, primaries whitening at the base.

In size it is more than twice the bulk of a crow.

The Raven makes the nest of a mass of sticks deeply hollowed and lined with wool or hair plucked from carcasses, placed in a cranny cliff or ledge, rarely in trees.

The eggs are 4 to 7 light bluish-green—lichen green spotted and marked or blotched—rarely are streaked longitudinally with olive or dark olive and rarely marked with vinaceous grey.

The Raven is a resident of California, hence wide ranging, the chief centers of distribution being the semi-arid interior coastal ranges of South central, the larger islands and the Northwestern coastal strip.

In the Raven we behold, not alone the ranking member of the order Passeres, but the most highly developed of birds. Quick witted, cunning and audacious, this fowl of sinister aspect has been invested by peoples of all ages with a mysterious and semi-sacred character. His ominous creakings were thought to have a prophetic import while his preternatural shrewdness has made him, with many, a symbol of divine knowledge.

Primitive man, especially, felt the somber spell of his presence, and the Raven was as deeply imbedded in the maritime Greek-Latin tribes and of the hardy Norsemen, as he is today in that of the Haida Indians of Alaska or the Zunis of New Mexico.

That our own Indians held the Raven in the highest reverence is evidenced by the following curious fragment attributed to Father Torguemaada:

The place is the island of St. Catherine (now Santa Cruz) and the time about the middle of the 18th century. The Spaniards are visiting the heathen temple on the then populous island where birds are sacrificed in great numbers to "some devil."

It happened when the soldiers came to see this temple, they found within the said circle, two crows, considerably larger than ordinary, which at the approach of the Spaniards, flew away, but alighted among the rocks in the neighborhood.

The soldiers, seeing them of such uncommon size, fired their guns and killed them. At this, an Indian, who had attended the Spaniards as a guide, fell into an agony. I was informed that they believed the devil spoke to them in these crows and hence held them in great veneration.

Although confined now to the wilderness and waste places, where his persistent conduct has exiled him, the Raven is still in a sense the dominant bird of the Northern hemisphere. No other bird unless it is the Regal Falcon, successfully disputes his sway, and wherever he deigns to dwell he becomes the bete noir, the sable satanic ruler of the bird world.

In man alone has the Raven met his match; and the eternal conflict between man, the supreme of the mammalian line, and Carava, the dusky apex of the avian succession, if it could be told, would afford some of the most thrilling chapters in the history of animal psychology.

The ancient occupation of the earth by this sable master is evidenced in part by the geographical races, some 20 in number, in which the virtually uniform and really implacable species, Corvus corax, has been divided. The differences recognized are chiefly those of size and the relative proportions of beak and claw. A host of the Ravens' lesser brethren, crows and choughs and rooks occupy pretty much the same territory, and they extend the corvian domain well over the southern hemisphere, save that no member of the genus is found in South America.

Not even the Crow is fastidious in diet, but the Raven indulges propensities of appetite which have justly marked him an outlaw. Frequenting as he does the waste places of the earth, there are two situations or ranges which the Raven especially effects—the rugged portions of the seacoast and the cattle ranges of the interior.

In the former situation, the Raven subsists upon insects, shell fish, and cast off offal, together with those main staples of spring and summer, the eggs and young of birds. On the cattle ranges carrion becomes the staple of diet, or in default of this the bird eats insects, frogs, lizards and to some extent the smaller mammals.

The eggs and young of all ground nesting and cliff haunting birds are diligently sought for. The lake borders and interior marshes throughout the State suffer from the daily depredations of these patient marauders. In the pursuit of their nefarious trade, the Ravens will endure almost any punishment of beak or claw, and the only limit to the mischief wrought would appear to be in the corvine capacity.

Much stress has been laid elsewhere upon the destruction by Ravens of young and sickly calves, lambs and pigs. There is little complaint of this in California; whether the birds are better fed or better bred, I am unable to say. But at that, I have no doubt that in time of famine the exit of dying animals is often hastened by greedy Ravens.

Lemon Grove School News

Mrs. Mason's second grade children enjoyed a visit from Constable Rigley this week, as part of their social studies unit, Community Helpers. The boys and girls had previously seen a motion picture, "The Policeman," and they wanted to find out about police protection here at home in Lemon Grove. Mr. Rigley explained to them that he is from the San Diego County Sheriff's Office, and that he has been assigned to this community. He also explained that Highway Patrol Officer Coates, and many others, helped protect lives and property in Lemon Grove. Constable Rigley told the children how they can help by obeying the Safety Patrol, the traffic signals, and by being alert, good citizens. The pupils felt that Mr. Rigley is their friend, and they asked him many questions concerning his uniform and his duties. In return for Mr. Rigley's kindness, the group sang him their favorite song about the Policeman and thank him for taking time to visit their classroom.

This week John van Gilse, of the Grove Theatre, honors members of the School Safety Patrol at the Saturday matinee: Kenneth Hill, Bill Elkins, Richard Day, John Cornelius, Donald Newton, Lorenzo Alvarez, and Robert Davis.

The 7-3 class of Mr. Freley's homeroom held a very successful bake sale in the middle section during the lunch period last Friday. The second grade children recently took a trip to the fire station at 10th and B streets in San Diego. Mrs. Conrad Maeding, Paul McCormick, Wm. Gurney, and John Stafford accompanied the group on the expedition, also Mrs. See, the teacher going. Adults, as well as children were well repaid for the journey in interest stimulated and knowledge gained.

Mrs. Bowen's second grade also visited the fire station at 1171 Tenth avenue, San Diego, on Tuesday, October 24. They were accompanied by the following mothers: Mmes. Luther Reames, Mrs. Millard McKinney and Anthony Van Wagner. The firemen demonstrated to the children how signals are received and the procedures following. They slid down poles, climbed an aerial ladder and jumped from life nets. Equipment used in saving lives and property was displayed. The children have gained new knowledge of and appreciation for the work done by the firemen.

Vista La Mesa School

Mrs. Cornelius' fourth and fifth grade class enjoyed science experiments this week, using the new science kit purchased for them by the P.T.A. earlier this year. The class demonstrated by experiments that air exerts great pressure. Air was forced from a large can by means of heat, and the can immediately stopped. In a few moments the air pressure outside the can collapsed it.

A further experiment was the placing of a hardboiled egg in the top of a small-mouthed bottle and then burning the gases from the bottle, thus forcing the egg, by outside pressure, into the jar.

Next week the class will use a tuning fork to show how sound disturbs the air waves.

Last week, Mrs. Tait's third grade class began studying tug boats. They learned the many things that such boats do, and will make further study about other types of boats and

School Student Council Meets

The Student Council of the Lemon Grove elementary school met on Wednesday of last week to continue with discussions of school improvement. A motion to have music with meals in the school cafeteria was voted out, but they unanimously approved a motion to treat the groups at those lunch tables with the best record for courtesy and table manners.

It was decided that a court shall be established in which those citizens of the school who do not uphold the existing regulations shall be reprimanded.

Other problems will be presented to the council by the various classes, in order to discover how the students feel about their school and what problems should be solved.

Students serving on this council, which is under the guidance of Bernard Grossman, fifth grade teacher, are: Richard Webster and Margaret Barry, of Mrs. Jensen's class; Charlene Olson and Jack Milner, Miss Bauman's class; Sharon Lane and Kathleen Holmes, of Mrs. Strohman's class; Scott Birkenshaw and Jon Haupt, Mrs. Barrett's class; Willard Rigley and Bill Elkins, Mr. Purves' class; Byron Cannon and Karen Van Gilse, Mr. Grossman's class; Wayne Pinterich and Roland Molder, Mrs. Holmquist's class; Linda Walters, Donald Brent, of Mrs. Hacker's class; Joyce Bagrie and Stanley Solleder, Mrs. J. Mason's class; Gay Calvert and Sandra Waggoner, Mr. Sutton's class; and Gary Cox and Robert Chapple of Mr. Beale's class.

Roberta Steward was elected chairman of Mrs. J. Mason's 5th grade class for the months of November and December. Others named were Warren Hogan, vice chairman and reporter; Minnie Gregory, housekeeper; Jack Coppenger and Frances Whalley, ball monitors.

Report cards for all students of the District will be issued after the end of the first quarter, during week of November 13. All cards will have been distributed to pupils by Friday, as announced by S. K. Solleder, director of education in the district.

Little Miss Sharon Artell, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Artell, of Spring Valley, wore a frock of white dotted swiss made by her great-grandmother for Sharon's grandmother at her first communion over 50 years ago. Each time a little girl in the family has worn the dress to first communion, it was carefully folded, wrapped in tissue paper and placed in a box for the next little lady to wear on such an important occasion.

The dress has kept beautifully white and when Sharon wore it this year, it was not far from being in style.

Two pictures will be shown at the school auditorium on Friday evening of next week: A Gospel story, "The Road to Emmaus," and "Driftwood" will be shown. The program starts at 8:15.

Dr. David Wilhite, M. D., and Dr. Peter Shea dentist, have volunteered their services next week to give free examinations to all students of St. John of the Cross School. Miss Sue Dausser, and Mrs. Pearl Ray, registered nurses, will assist the doctors.

Mrs. Rose Fontana and Mrs. Alex Baron took first prizes at the Bird Show held in the school auditorium last Saturday and Sunday. Competition was keen for there was a large number of entries, and large crowds were in attendance.

The St. John foot ball team won the game from St. Jude last Saturday by default. The boys would much rather have won it the hard way. They will play Guadalupe at Golden Hills, Balboa Park, at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Adlerz-Tapia Wedding in Chas. Adlerz Home

Lovely in its simplicity was the wedding ceremony read by candlelight by the Rev. Dan Apra uniting in marriage Mr. George Adlerz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adlerz, and Miss Nora Tapia, of Los Angeles, daughter of Mrs. C. C. Tapia, of New York City, last Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bridegroom's parents at 2838 Cypress avenue.

The rooms were artistically decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Preceding the ceremony, Ozzie Lewis sang "I Love You Truly," and during the ceremony, Sven Hasselgren sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by Charles Adlerz, was lovely in a frock of aqua lace, with high neckline, long sleeves and full skirt finished with lace scalloped around the hemline. Her fingertip veil was fastened to a bonnet of lace matching her dress. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Arthur Pettit wore a frock of brown linen with corsage of gardenias.

Roy Adlerz served his brother as best man.

The bridegroom's mother wore an oyster white chiffon blouse with silver trimming and formal black skirt.

A Swedish smorgasbord supper was served in the garden to 60 guests by Mrs. Lars Anderson and Mrs. G. Gelvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Adlerz will reside in Los Angeles where he is employed by Hoffman Television.

Out of town guests were Sven Hasselgren of San Francisco; Messrs. and Mrs. Arthur Pettit, Allen Blackberg, Don Rankin, Sam Seimner, Ozzie Lewis, and H. H. Stake; and Messrs. Roy Fisher, Bill Freeman and Bill Perkins, of Los Angeles.

About People You Know

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Galland, of Marshalltown, Iowa, who had been called here three weeks ago by the serious illness of their son, Robert Galland, 2155 Ensenada, left Tuesday for their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Irey and son Michael, of Santa Maria, were weekend house guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Rheault, 2556 Bonita. They are former residents of Lemon Grove and made calls on their many friends.

Nancy Ham had a most happy 13th birthday Saturday, when her parents, Lt. Com. and Mrs. J. W. Ham, 1675 Skyline, entertained at a party in the afternoon, after which a buffet dinner was served, followed by games. Tall flowers were used for decorations. The guests were Claudette Kiser, David Anthony, and Billy Vaughn.

Miss Janet Hentigan, 1730 Dupont, was honored at a birthday party given at her home last Friday evening by Donald Beebe, Winnipet Hall, Nancy Higuera, Mary Brown, Caroline Hickey, and Betty Campbell. ### Winter Symphony Opens Nov. 18

For the first time in the history, San Diego will have a winter-time professional symphony orchestra of its own. More than that the orchestra was organized by the musicians themselves, who then called from the Guadalajara Symphony Orchestra Dr. Leslie Hodge, protégé of the great conductor of the San Francisco Symphony, Alfred Hertz, to head it.

Called the San Diego Philharmonic Orchestra, to distinguish it from the summertime San Diego Symphony, the new organization, comprised of 85 musicians under the direction of Dr. Hodge will begin its first season at the Rugs Auditorium on November 18.

In the 20 weeks between that date and April 3 the San Diego Philharmonic Orchestra will play at the Rugs 10 Tuesday evening subscription concerts (divided into 2 series of 5, designated "Odd" and "Even"), eight "pop" concerts on Friday and Saturday nights, and five young people's concerts on Saturday mornings.

Season tickets for the 10 subscription concerts are now on sale at the Philharmonic box office in the Southern California Music Company, 630 C Street, San Diego.

Soloists of both international and local repute have been engaged for the subscription series. At the first concert, on November 20, Jacob Lateiner, the 21-year-old latest sensation in the piano field, will be a guest artist.

Ultra Violet Candler Shows Up Sour Eggs

Sour eggs can be detected by an ultra violet candler, says Robert E. Adolph, Farm Advisor. This type of spoilage has been impossible to uncover with an ordinary candling methods.

The bacterial organism causing most sour eggs impart a fluorescence to the albumen, Adolph explained. With the candler, this fluorescence appears through the egg shell as a bright green glow. The new instrument is proving especially useful in regrading eggs coming out of the storage — the time when sour eggs present the greatest problem.

The candler is so sensitive that eggs containing these bacteria can be detected even before they have decomposed enough to show any noticeable changes when opened by the housewife. For the reason egg packers are finding it useful.

As a result of the rapidly growing use of this instrument, storage eggs are better this fall than they have been in previous years.

PAINT FOR ALUMINUM SIDING
Question: I have aluminum siding on my house and I would like to paint it white. I understand some sort of "treat coat" should be applied first, so that the paint will adhere properly. Could you give me any information on this?
Answer: There is a special metal priming coat intended for this purpose. I cannot mention trade names in the column, but you may obtain information from the Architects Samples Exhibit, 101 Park Ave., New York 17.

Vanity

During the Twelfth dynasty vanity was sometimes a very expensive trait. Egyptian rulers of the time often admired their reflections in real silver mirrors that had handles of black obsidian adorned with solid gold.

Mules Are Born

Wooden-headed characters just can't help it. They were born that way. A stubborn streak may be apparent in a child by the time he is 12 months old. If his parents do nothing to mold his personality into softer, more agreeable lines, he is usually stuck with it as unpleasant trait for life.

Use Chewing-Gum Laxative—REMOVES WASTE...NOT GOOD FOOD

When you can't sleep—feel just awful because you need a laxative—do as millions do—chew FEEN-A-MINT. FEEN-A-MINT is wonderfully different! Doctors say many other laxatives start their "laxating" action too soon...right in the stomach. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, drain away nourishing food you need for health and energy...you feel weak, worn out. But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that weak, tired feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel fine, full of life! 25c, 50c, or 10c.
